Pumacy Systems achieves DIN ISO 9001 certification

Pumacy Systems GmbH software development certified by Deutsche Gesellschaft zur Zertifizierung von Managementsystemen (DQS).

Bernburg, 1 February 2011 – Pumacy Systems GmbH has achieved the ISO 9001:2008 certification by DQS GmbH (Deutsche Gesellschaft zur Zertifizierung von Managementsystemen). Pumacy Systems GmbH is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Pumacy Technologies AG, a provider of knowledge, process and innovation management solutions. Pumacy Technologies AG has already achieved ISO certification in 2010.

Tim Hagemeyer, team manager software development at Pumacy Systems GmbH, says: “The certification gives confidence to our customers and shows that we have an ongoing commitment to providing high quality products. We are making continuous progress and improvement in optimising our business processes and product development processes.”

Pumacy Systems develops and markets the knowledge management platform KMmaster, a web-based software solution for process-related management of information and documents. Individually designed solution concepts facilitate communication and collaboration within teams working in distributed environments. The systematic management of knowledge helps businesses to improve performance and increase profitability. Software solutions of Pumacy Systems GmbH are Team Collaboration Edition and Life Science Edition.
